

“Circulation”

1

Artist: Name of artist

Date: 15/11/2019

Media: Ink on canvas

Size: 80 cm X 100 cm

This piece illustrates the rotating reality humans live in. Thus, there are circles showing how humans circle through life only to leave again. The midst of the circle purposely branches out geometrical lines conveying how it would go on for eternity.

Image credit: Place tiny URL here

Return
to Room

“ MIXED ROOTS ”

2

Artist: Name of artist

Date: 21/6/2019

Media: collage

Size: 70 cm x 100 cm

The intention is to highlight the confusion multi culture people, like myself face, or in other words “cultural confusion”. Having Circassian roots, and living in an Arab country there is somehow a mix of culture in my identity which I illustrated in the collage mixed media that combines elements from the Circassian and Arab culture, and a self portrait.

Image credit: Place tiny URL here

Return
to Room

“ Aura Episodes ”

3

Artist: Name of artist

Date: 4/3/2020

Media: Painting

Size: 80 cm x 80 cm each

This duo series was created using a rotating spinner, with the purpose of showing how thoughts and what runs in a person's inner world can truly spin & consume a person. The opposite auras were depicted using a murky color palette for the aura of distortion and bright pastels were used for the color palette of the aura of joy. This piece is a reference to the interchangeability of the aura as a person goes through the journey of life.

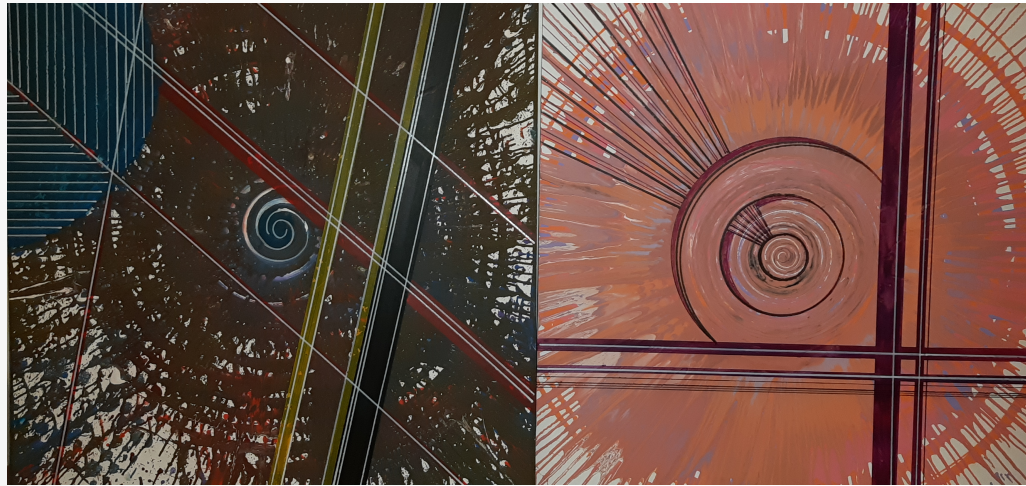

Image credit: Place tiny URL here

Return
to Room

“ Flipped ”

4

Artist: Name of artist

Date: 2/3/2020

Media: Painting

Size: 80 cm x 120 cm

Here, a Jordanian valley is depicted while flipping certain parts of the piece. An audience member would expect to see the continuation of the sunset, or the continuation of the desert valley, however they are surprised by the flipped parts. Showing that the beauty in life is the constant change that results in the life path being a paradox. Life is always fluctuating. It is constantly renewing itself that no even for a single moment is it ever the same. The beauty of realizing that life is uncertain and unpredictable is that we can overcome our attempts to predict and control our lives and the lives of others. The only certainty in life is uncertainty. This makes us realize the things we have to appreciate.

Image credit: Place tiny URL here

Return
to Room

“Flowing along”

5

Artist: Name of artist

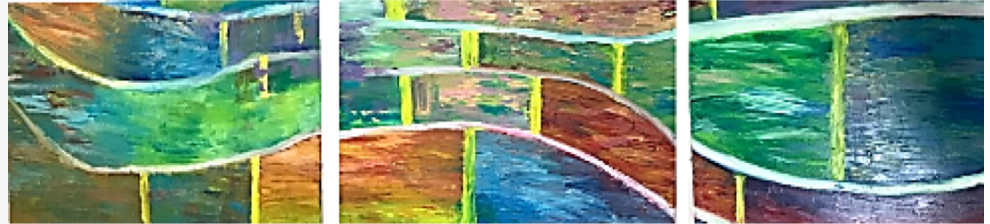

Date: 10/3/2020

Media: Painting

Size: 2 m x 60 cm

This piece is meant to depict nature in an unnatural way, using abstract and contrasting colors. This is done to convey the essence of paradox that is surrounding us all. Many things in our life are a paradox, for instance a conflict one might face in their life path is self-improvement. Improving one's self is good. But being preoccupied with it can make us self-obsessed and perfectionists. Existence is even paradoxical, that It does not make rational sense. Nature makes sense but existence itself is irrational and, thus Possibly supernatural. (Science vs Experience)

Image credit: Place tiny URL here

Return
to Room

“Layered view”

6

Artist: Name of artist

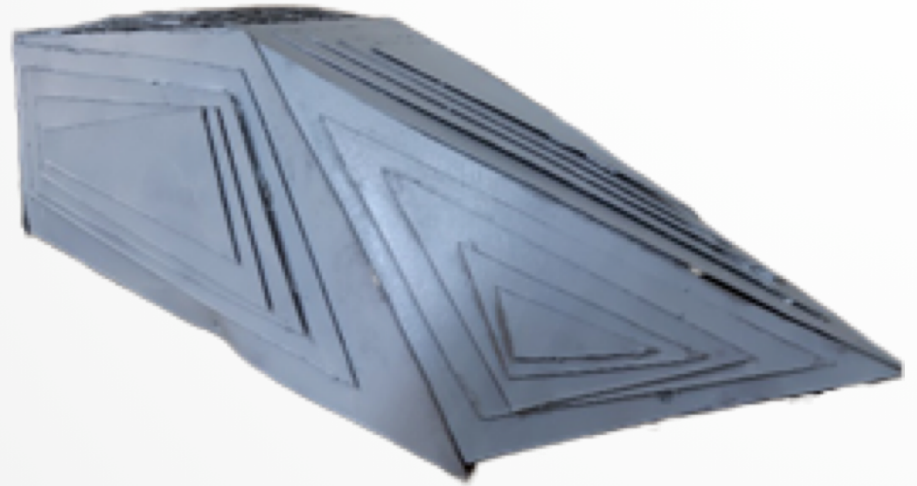

Date: 9/3/2020

Media: Sculpture

Size: 100 cm x 40 cm

This piece explores the connection between the organic and inorganic in life. The cardboard holds organic elements, however, the geometric shapes arranged in a 3 dimensional format, creates an architectural element which is inorganic. The message is to convey the true experience of life that is intertwined with both the organic & inorganic that coexist together, perhaps raising the thought of good vs evil in the audience's mind.

Image credit: Place tiny URL here

Return
to Room

“Zoom”

7

Artist: Name of artist

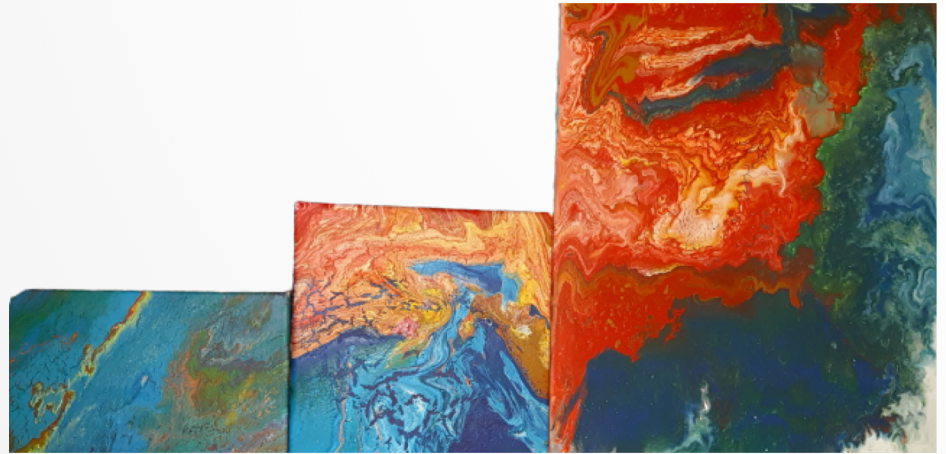

Date: 6/3/2020

Media: Painting

Size: 80 cm x 50 cm

In this piece, the intention is to portray the importance of proper judgment as a person embarks on the voyage of life. The smallest painting is the complete picture zoomed out, and as the pieces get bigger, they are more zoomed in. I was inspired by the saying of “look at the big picture”, when interpreting certain decisions in life. This message is portrayed in that each piece is different, as it is looked at from a different angle, meaning that it is zoomed in, or zoomed out.

Image credit: Place tiny URL here

Return
to Room

“Accidental Tranquility”

8

Artist: Name of artist

Date: 9/3/2020

Media: Mixed media

Size: 80 cm x 80 cm

This piece is proof that despite having unconventional elements mashed together in a piece, a harmonious composition can still occur. This delivers the message to the audience that in life there are no standards or measures to perfection in the life they choose to pursue.

Image credit: Place tiny URL here

Return
to Room

“Dive In”

9

Artist: Name of artist

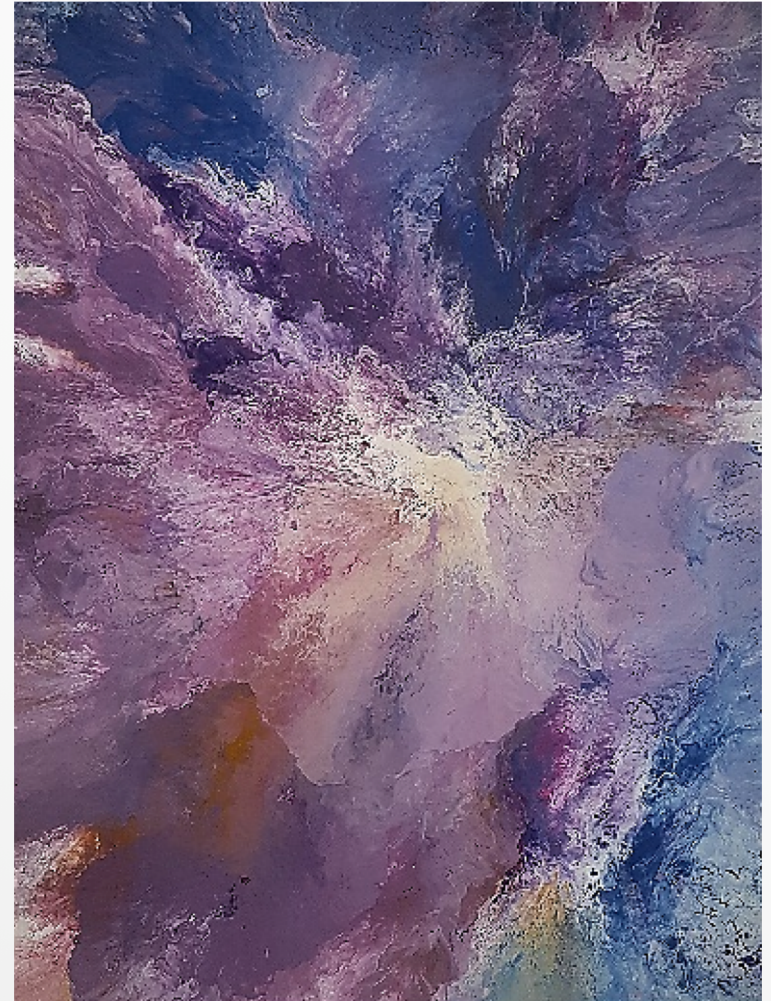

Date: 1/3/2020

Media: Painting

Size: 60 cm x 90 cm

This piece is a personal commentary on moving into adulthood, which is an inevitable part of every individual's life path. You can only see what it really looks like from far away, which is an infinite deep ocean. The purpose was portrayed through the abstract waves that are of different purple tones to highlight the somber mood.

Image credit: Place tiny URL here

Return
to Room

“DEAR CUP”

10

Artist: Name of artist

Date: 5/4/2020

Media: Mixed media

Size: 120 cm x 120 cm

Turkish coffee readings are known to give a panorama of the coffee drinker's life in details. Thus this piece offers a lens on life paths from the cultural aspect as the different shapes and images are unique to each coffee drinker. Every time a person drinks coffee, in the Arab and Turkish culture, they get a different reading just like a Rubik's cube.

Image credit: Place tiny URL here

Return
to Room

“JOURNEY OF PATHS”

11

Artist: Name of artist

Date: 10/6/2019

Media: Animation

Size: -

The piece illustrates a person's frustration as he moves from one path to another not knowing when to stop and “settle” on the ‘proper” life path....if there is one. Fate and destiny will always play a role when it comes to a person's life journey. This concept was conveyed by all the movements and drastic changes in position, the Rubik's cube ended up in the midst of the cubes, under the small circle of light which is its destiny.

Image credit: Place tiny URL here

Return
to Room